

AUTISM RESEARCH CENTRE

We Are Recruiting!

The Autism Research Centre invites families to participate in our research program that examines the early signs of Autism in infants and toddlers.

What are we looking for?

We are looking for families who have a child diagnosed with Autism as well as a new baby between 5 and 11 months of age.

We are also looking for families without a history of Autism.

What will we measure?

We will be measuring several areas of development to understand the early signs of Autism:

1. Signs and symptoms of Autism
2. How children regulate emotions when playing
3. How children examine their visual world
4. Physiological responses while playing such as heart rate and breathing
